Ageing and Elderly Care: Critical Issues, Challenges and the Way Forward

28th - 29th March 2018

Venue: University of Kashmir

Changing economic realities in the developing world, along with rapid demographic and social change, has created new sets of social and economic issues. A major issue relates to population ageing and old age care. This is to be understood in the backdrop of the social and economic processes like changes in family structure from joint to nuclear families, absence of formal support systems, rapid urbanisation, large scale migration from the rural to the urban areas. All these factors together, have created issues, concerns and challenges for the ageing population in India; this population (60+ of age) is projected to increase from 77 million in 2001 to 137 million in 2021.

Faced with these challenges, it is imperative for policymakers and the developmental sector to come up with critical interventions, so as to provide support to this large population group.

To create a wide awareness on problems, challenges and issues in population ageing and old age care, the Department of Social Work at University of Kashmir will be organising a Two Day National Seminar at University of Kashmir from March 28th – 29th, 2018.
